Dashed lines represent global average.
Dotted lines represent regional average.

People in Armenia are most worried about prolonged severe weather (72%) and severe weather events (70%) causing them serious harm, the two highest levels of concern among the ten risks asked about. Across all ten, worry in Armenia runs lower than the global average. Concern far outstrips lived experience, however: while 72% worry about prolonged severe weather, only 3% have actually been harmed by it in the past two years. The harm most commonly experienced in Armenia is road and traffic accidents (22%). The gap between worry and experience is widest for prolonged severe weather, where 72% are worried but 3% have actually been affected.
