

Worry and experience of harm from everyday risks

People in Chile are most worried about violent crime (84%) and road and traffic accidents (80%) causing them serious harm, the two highest levels of concern among the ten risks asked about. Across all ten, worry in Chile runs higher than the global average. Concern far outstrips lived experience, however: while 84% worry about violent crime, only 4% have actually been harmed by it in the past two years. The harm most commonly experienced in Chile is mental health issues (8%). The gap between worry and experience is widest for violent crime, where 84% are worried but 4% have actually been affected.
