

Worry and experience of harm from everyday risks

Worry + country value
Experience + country value

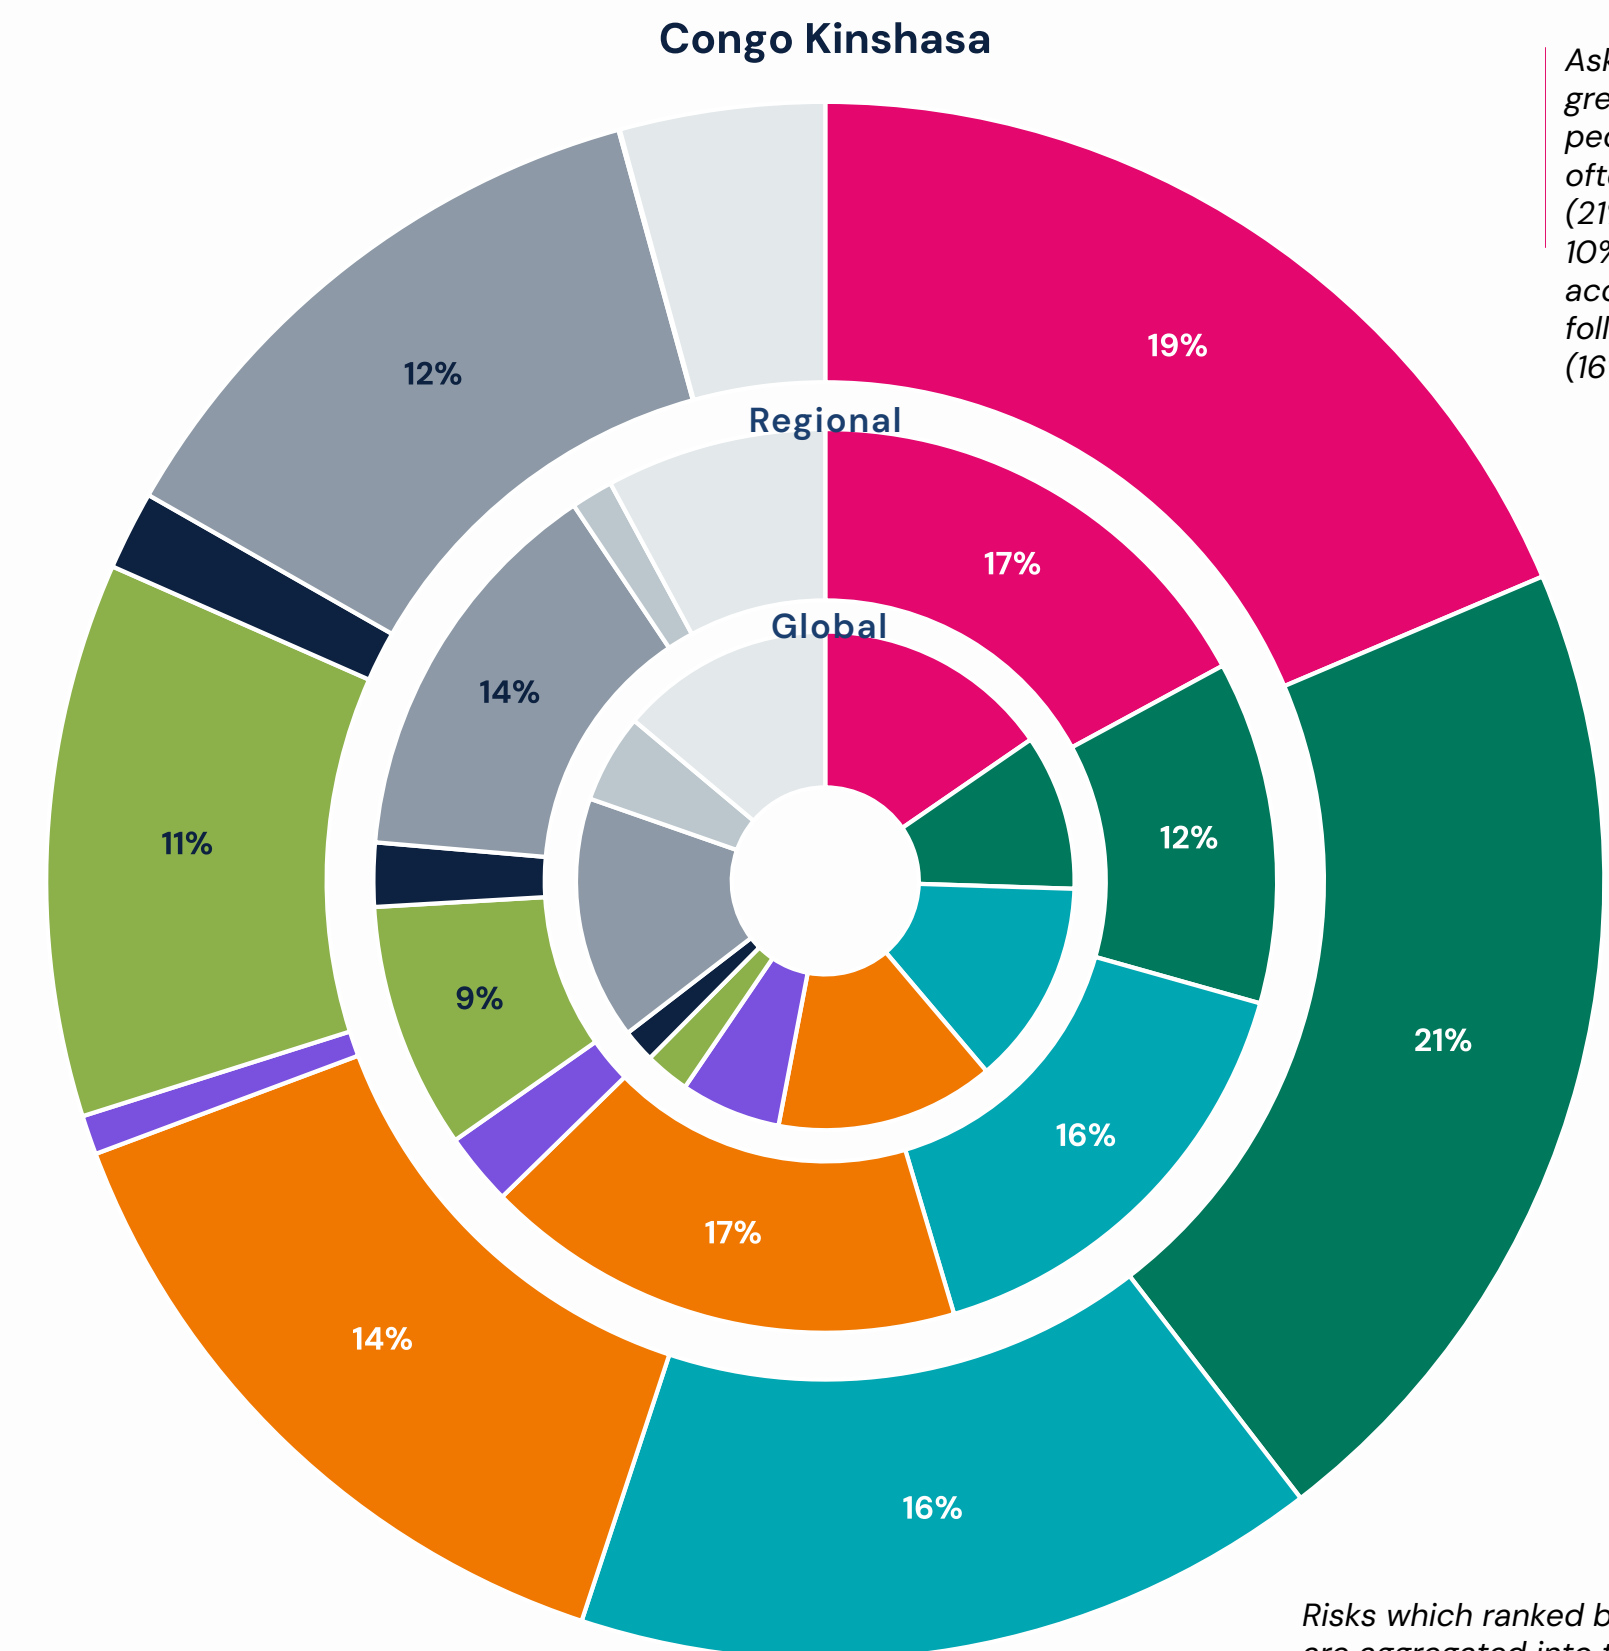

Dashed lines represent global average.
Dotted lines represent regional average.

People in Congo Kinshasa are most worried about road and traffic accidents (81%) and violent crime (75%) causing them serious harm, the two highest levels of concern among the ten risks asked about. Across all ten, worry in Congo Kinshasa runs higher than the global average. Concern far outstrips lived experience, however: while 81% worry about road and traffic accidents, only 12% have actually been harmed by it in the past two years. The harm most commonly experienced in Congo Kinshasa is the water they drink (19%). The gap between worry and experience is widest for road and traffic accidents, where 81% are worried but 12% have actually been affected.

Top of mind risk to safety

Road and transport
Crime and violence
Health
Economy and financial
Climate and severe weather
War/terrorism
Work
Other risks*
Nothing/No risk
Don't know

Asked to name the single greatest risk to their daily safety, people in Congo Kinshasa most often point to crime and violence (21%), above the global figure of 10%. Road and transport accidents ranks second (19%), followed by health problems (16%).

Risks which ranked below 2% of the global average are aggregated into this 'Other risks' category.