

Worry and experience of harm from everyday risks

People in Iceland are most worried about road and traffic accidents (74%) and violent crime (51%) causing them serious harm, the two highest levels of concern among the ten risks asked about. Across all ten, worry in Iceland runs lower than the global average. Concern far outstrips lived experience, however: while 74% worry about road and traffic accidents, only 5% have actually been harmed by it in the past two years. The harm most commonly experienced in Iceland is mental health issues (12%). The gap between worry and experience is widest for road and traffic accidents, where 74% are worried but 5% have actually been affected.
