Dashed lines represent global average.
Dotted lines represent regional average.

People in Iraq are most worried about road and traffic accidents (62%) and prolonged severe weather (60%) causing them serious harm, the two highest levels of concern among the ten risks asked about. Across all ten, worry in Iraq runs lower than the global average. Concern far outstrips lived experience, however: while 62% worry about road and traffic accidents, only 13% have actually been harmed by it in the past two years. The harm most commonly experienced in Iraq is prolonged severe weather (19%). The gap between worry and experience is widest for violent crime, where 58% are worried but 5% have actually been affected.
