

Worry and experience of harm from everyday risks

People in Italy are most worried about violent crime (86%) and severe weather events (83%) causing them serious harm, the two highest levels of concern among the ten risks asked about. Across all ten, worry in Italy runs higher than the global average. Concern far outstrips lived experience, however: while 86% worry about violent crime, only 3% have actually been harmed by it in the past two years. The harm most commonly experienced in Italy is prolonged severe weather (15%). The gap between worry and experience is widest for violent crime, where 86% are worried but 3% have actually been affected.

Top of mind risk to safety

Asked to name the single greatest risk to their daily safety, people in Italy most often point to road and transport accidents (25%), above the global figure of 15%. Health problems ranks second (19%), followed by crime and violence (14%).

Risks which ranked below 2% of the global average are aggregated into this 'Other risks' category.
