

Worry and experience of harm from everyday risks

People in Kenya are most worried about road and traffic accidents (82%) and prolonged severe weather (79%) causing them serious harm, the two highest levels of concern among the ten risks asked about. Across all ten, worry in Kenya runs higher than the global average. Concern far outstrips lived experience, however: while 82% worry about road and traffic accidents, only 8% have actually been harmed by it in the past two years. The harm most commonly experienced in Kenya is prolonged severe weather (14%). The gap between worry and experience is widest for road and traffic accidents, where 82% are worried but 8% have actually been affected.

Top of mind risk to safety

Asked to name the single greatest risk to their daily safety, people in Kenya most often point to health problems (25%), above the global figure of 13%. Crime and violence ranks second (22%), followed by the economy and personal finances (14%).

Risks which ranked below 2% of the global average are aggregated into this 'Other risks' category.
