

Worry and experience of harm from everyday risks

People in Lebanon are most worried about violent crime (91%) and road and traffic accidents (81%) causing them serious harm, the two highest levels of concern among the ten risks asked about. Across all ten, worry in Lebanon runs higher than the global average. Concern far outstrips lived experience, however: while 91% worry about violent crime, only 4% have actually been harmed by it in the past two years. The harm most commonly experienced in Lebanon is the food they eat (13%). The gap between worry and experience is widest for violent crime, where 91% are worried but 4% have actually been affected.

Top of mind risk to safety

Asked to name the single greatest risk to their daily safety, people in Lebanon most often point to the economy and personal finances (29%), above the global figure of 14%. Health problems ranks second (17%), followed by war or terrorism (16%).

Risks which ranked below 2% of the global average are aggregated into this 'Other risks' category.
