

Worry and experience of harm from everyday risks

People in Thailand are most worried about prolonged severe weather (70%) and road and traffic accidents (70%) causing them serious harm, the two highest levels of concern among the ten risks asked about. Across all ten, worry in Thailand runs lower than the global average. Concern far outstrips lived experience, however: while 70% worry about prolonged severe weather, only 12% have actually been harmed by it in the past two years. The harm most commonly experienced in Thailand is road and traffic accidents (13%). The gap between worry and experience is widest for violent crime, where 65% are worried but 1% have actually been affected.

Top of mind risk to safety

Asked to name the single greatest risk to their daily safety, people in Thailand most often point to road and transport accidents (38%), above the global figure of 15%. Health problems ranks second (18%), followed by the economy and personal finances (4%).

Risks which ranked below 2% of the global average are aggregated into this 'Other risks' category.
