

Worry and experience of harm from everyday risks

Worry + country value
Experience + country value

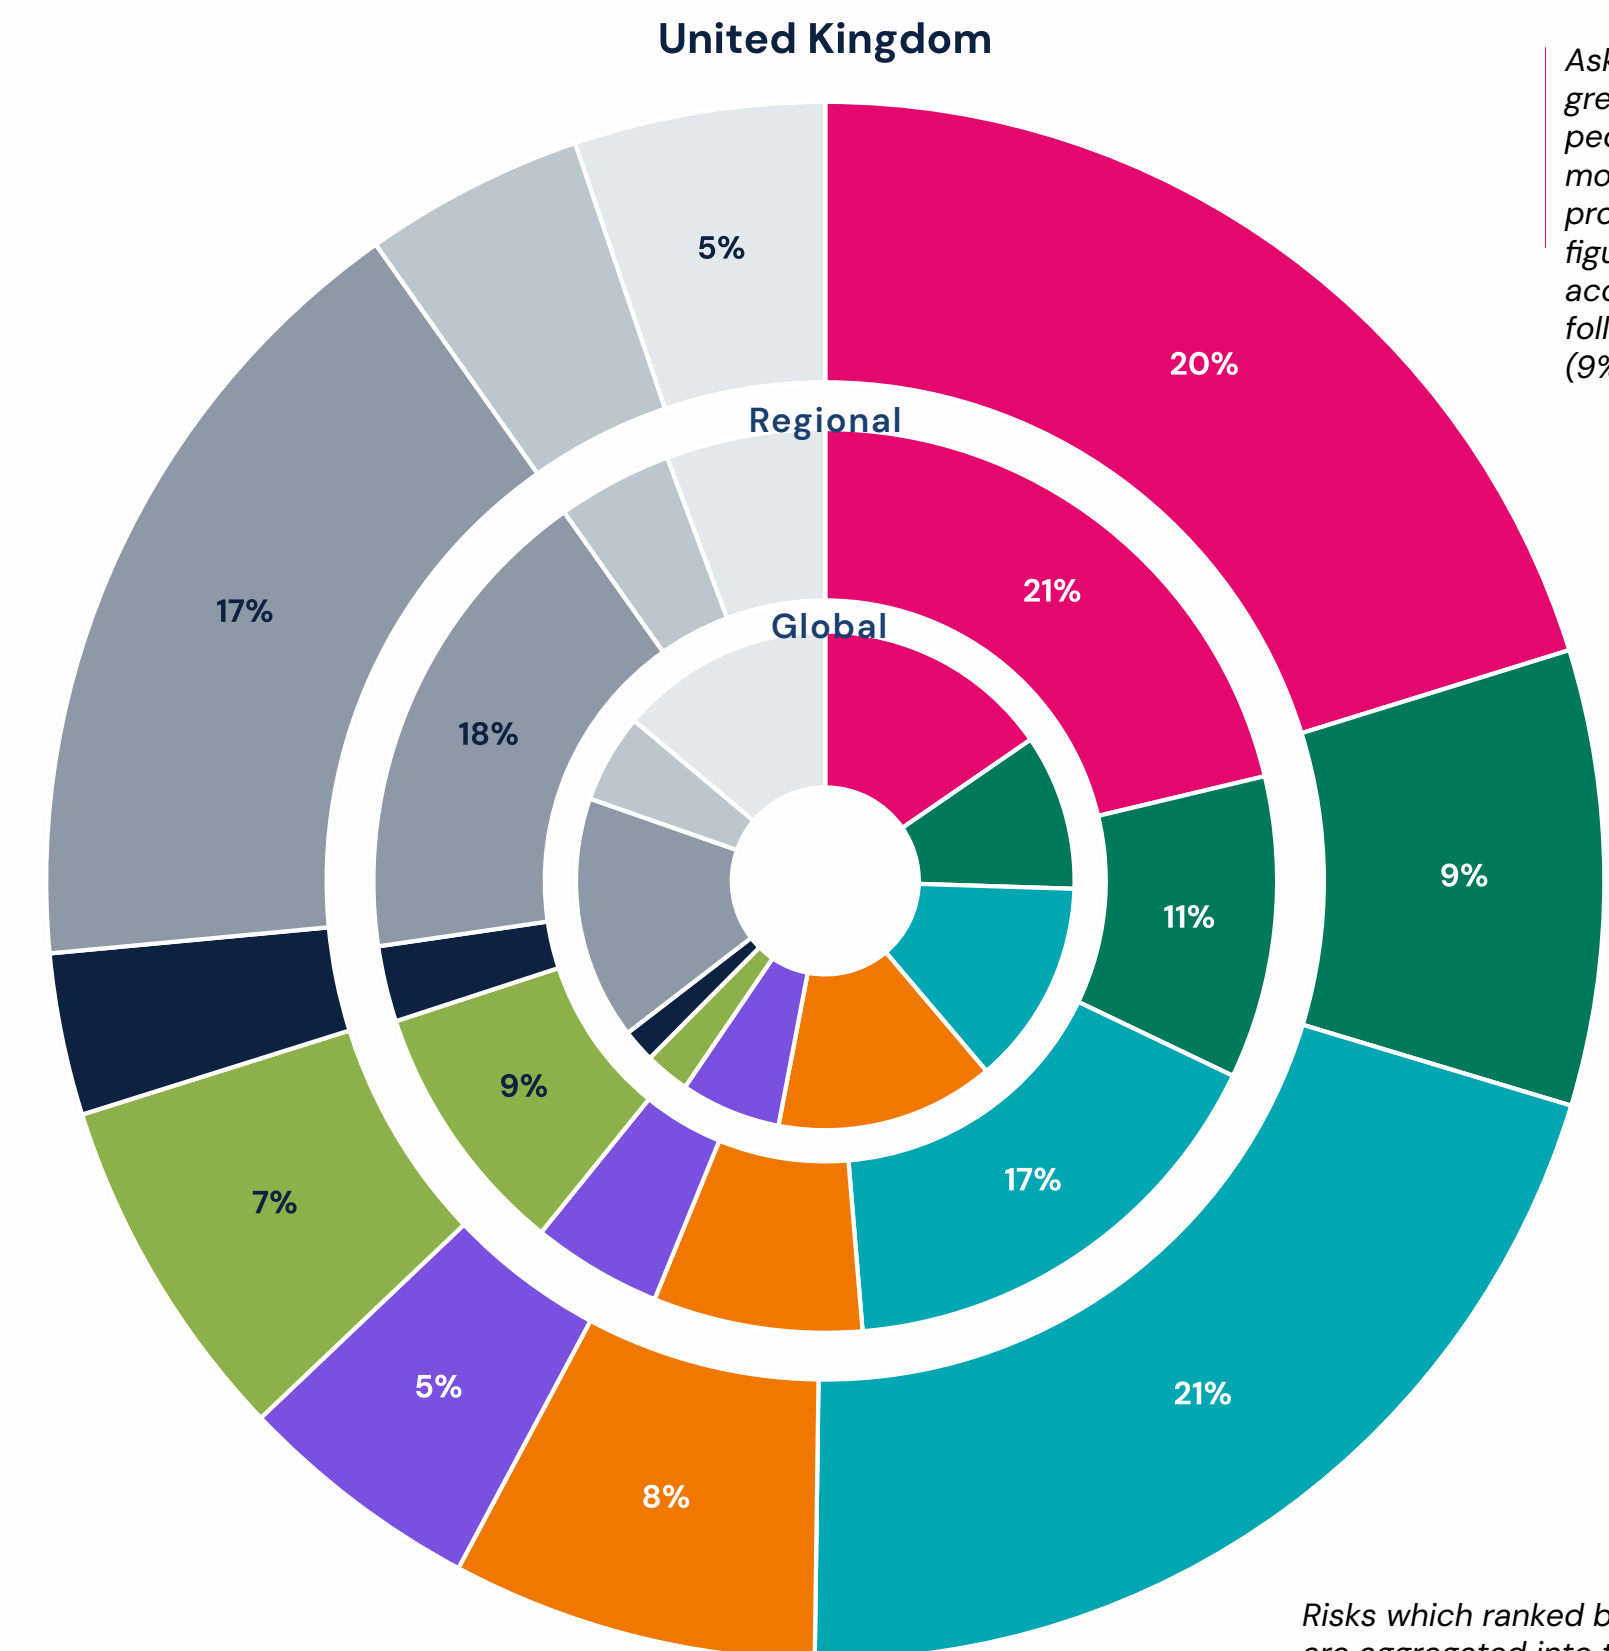

Dashed lines represent global average.
Dotted lines represent regional average.

People in the United Kingdom are most worried about prolonged severe weather (57%) and violent crime (53%) causing them serious harm, the two highest levels of concern among the ten risks asked about. Across all ten, worry in the United Kingdom runs lower than the global average. Concern far outstrips lived experience, however: while 57% worry about prolonged severe weather, only 9% have actually been harmed by it in the past two years. The harm most commonly experienced in the United Kingdom is mental health issues (17%). The gap between worry and experience is widest for violent crime, where 53% are worried but 3% have actually been affected.

Top of mind risk to safety

Road and transport
Crime and violence
Health
Economy and financial
Climate and severe weather
War/terrorism
Work
Other risks*
Nothing/No risk
Don't know

Asked to name the single greatest risk to their daily safety, people in the United Kingdom most often point to health problems (21%), above the global figure of 13%. Road and transport accidents ranks second (20%), followed by crime and violence (9%).

Risks which ranked below 2% of the global average are aggregated into this 'Other risks' category.